Industries To Be Housed In East Borough

Three new firms will begin manufacturing operations in East Stroudsburg next month.

They will occupy most of a two-story brick building on Brown St. The plant formerly housed Pocono Textile Prints.

The report was made at a Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce membership drive meeting in Stroudsburg last night.

Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the chamber, listed the three companies as:

Modern Products Inc., a weaving company which specializes in making jersey fabric.

Chester Finishing Corp., which treats, dyes and finishes fabrics.

A blouse company now in process of incorporation and without an official name. This firm will produce finished blouses for distribution.

Sen. Crowe said the three companies have already signed leases, which are dated April 1.

Manufacturing may not start immediately because there is considerable "housekeeping" and repairing to be done in the building.

The Chester Finishing Corp. has already started to move some of its equipment into the building, Sen. Crowe said.

There is an excellent possibility that still another company will take up the remaining portion of the building, he went on.

This is a shoe firm which advertised in the county recently to check the local labor supply.

The senator did not name the company. Even if the shoe firm turns down the bid, there are several other prospects, he added.

With only the three firms thus far up now there will still be an increase in the labor force over the number which used to be employed.

Sen. Crowe said the three companies will hire a total of about 150 employees. If the shoe company came in it would add about 80 more—bringing the total to around 230.

The number of employees under the old company was about 125, a chamber official said.

The building has nearly 60,000 square feet of floor space. The three companies will occupy the entire lower floor and a rear wing on the second floor.

The front portion of the second floor at present is being reserved for the shoe company.

The rest of the meeting, under membership chairman Glenn Sanborn Jr., was devoted to organizing the chamber directors as heads of membership solicitation teams.

At present there are 350 subscribing members of the chamber. The aim is 600.

The prospect list of 750 persons and firms was distributed last night. It is planned that each of the 40 directors and 10 life-members of the chamber will head a team.

The teams will do the canvassing and solicitation job. It is hoped to have between 150 and 200 members on the job.

Luxury Homes Built By U.S.

Washington (AP)—Rep. Brownson (R-Ind.) said yesterday the State Department built five super luxury homes for high American officials in Bonn, Germany, at a cost of $151,000 each in 1951.

And for the American ambassador, he said, the department bought and refurbished a swank residence at a cost of $240,000.

Tossing new bars at plush living by U. S. officials overseas, Brownson said there is "serious doubt" whether the department had legal authority in the first place to build the houses and other de luxe facilities in the West German capital.

The Indiana lawmaker said Congress never authorized the construction and did not appropriate any money for it. The State Department, he said, used German marks credited to the U. S. Government.

These marks were part of U. S. counterpart funds in Germany, he said, and were intended to be used to help restore Germany's war-shattered economy.

Brownson told a reporter that as chairman of the House International government operations subcommittee he has summoned State Department officials for questioning at a public hearing March 19.

The total cost of a 137-acre Bonn project was put at 28 million dollars.

Soviet MIG Jets Down British Bomber

Five Crewmen Killed, One In Red Hands

Lueneburg, Germany (AP)—Two Soviet MIG jets shot down a four-engine British bomber in flames yesterday after a swift foray above the Elbe River Valley at the East-West frontier of Germany.

Today the Russians claimed the British plane opened fire first. The Russian reply, broadcast by Moscow radio soon after the British government had ordered a strong protest of its own filed, also claimed the bomber was violating the Soviet zone of Germany when it was brought down.

The incident killed five of the bomber's seven crewmen and heightened tension built up since the destruction Tuesday of a U. S. Thunderjet by two Czechoslovak fighter pilots over Germany.

The Russian reply said one of the bomber's crewmen was in Soviet hands. It said he was wounded and had been taken to the hospital.

The British Air Ministry previously had said that six of the seven crewmen were killed.

The British have one wounded survivor of the seven officially listed aboard the bomber. An Air Ministry spokesman said early today he had not yet been authorized to change the official casualty toll in the light of the Soviet report that the Russians have a wounded British survivor, too.

Britain's protest is expected to be delivered later today. At last reports it was still being drafted in Berlin.

The twin incidents, coming right after a new Soviet government took office, raised the spectre of crisis in a Europe still pondering Malenkov as Stalin's successor in the Kremlin.

The British charged yesterday's attack was deliberate. They drafted a stiff protest to Russian demanding reparations and punishment of "those responsible for this outrage."

The reply broadcast by Russia was sent in a letter to Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, British high commissioner in Germany, from Soviet Gen. Vasili Shukov. It declared the British bomber had "penetrated 120 kilometers" 72 miles into Germany's Soviet zone.

The Russian charge of territorial violation has been standard Communist practice in such cases. Czechoslovakia used in replying to a U. S. protest over Tuesday's incident.

Chukov's letter described yesterday's incident as "regrettable," but protested at the same time against the alleged violation of Soviet zone air space.

Britain's Air Ministry said the fatal strike came in the Hamburg-Berlin air corridor less than two hours after two Soviet fighters had made a "threatening mock attack" on another British bomber 100 miles deep in the Russian zone.

It is one of three such aerial lanes, 20 miles wide, used by Allied aircraft for eight years under four-power agreement.

The main wreckage of the British bomber blasted apart fell burning into Soviet territory on the east bank of the Elbe. Other debris dropped in British territory on the west bank and the wounded pilot parachuted safely to Western soil.

Three British Aircraft Crash

London (AP)—Three aircraft from the British carrier Eagle crashed Wednesday near the Yugoslav ship Galeb bringing Marshal Tito to Britain on an official visit. The Admiralty announced yesterday. Four naval officers are missing and presumed killed.

The Eagle, and the carriers Intomitable and Theseus and three destroyers were at sea off Gibraltar to meet Marshal Tito.

Two of the planes, Sea Hornets, collided in the air. The third was a jet which had just taken part in a fly-past of 60 aircraft over the Galeb. The planes were on normal flying duties.

Eden Says U.S. Must Continue 'Partial War'

New York (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said last night the United States must continue to fight only a partial war in Korea—"with all kinds of restraints."

The 1,800 persons who heard Eden's major policy speech before the Foreign Policy Association interrupted him twice with applause. The first was when he said that no goods of strategic importance had gone to China from British sources in nearly two years.

The second time was when he pledged the British people as loyal comrades in the struggle for peace and freedom.

Eden conceded before the non-profit, education organization that showing restraint in Korea was a thankless assignment, and added: "It is one thing for a nation to throw its entire strength into a fight for survival. It is another to conduct a partial war with all kinds of restraints upon your action."

"And yet we know that these restraints must be maintained."

U.S. Studies Plane Attacks

Washington (AP)—Red fighter plane attacks on Allied aircraft in Germany may be part of a deliberate get-tough pattern ordered by the Kremlin to feel out and if possible intimidate the Western powers.

This possibility, U.S. officials said, became a subject for serious inquiry here and in other Allied capitals after the second attack in 48 hours resulted in the loss of a British military bomber. A U.S. jet fighter on patrol had been shot down Tuesday.

An alternative theory to which many diplomatic authorities leaned was that the close relationship of the two incidents in time was coincidental but, as one expressed it, "You can't rule out anything."

Whether deliberate or by chance, the incidents had the immediate and obvious result of tightening the tension between the Western powers and the Soviet world.

The new government in Moscow and the relatively new government in Washington are faced with potentially grave decisions.

Boy Reenacts Brutal Slaying Of Little Girl Classmates

New City, N. Y. (AP)—A dungaree-clad 16-year-old boy slowly and calmly re-enacted for state police movie cameras yesterday the savage slaying of two little girl classmates.

The boy, Carlton Mason, went through the motions in a woods in the wild Ramapo Mountain area, 25 miles from New York. The murder scene was deep in mud from an overnight rain.

Then Mason was locked up without bail on a first degree murder charge—which carries a mandatory death penalty upon conviction in New York.

"He's as cool as ice water," commented Rockland County Coroner M. J. Moses.

The coroner said the little girls, Esther Nagy, 5, and Marjorie Boudreau, 8, were ravaged by a sodomite. Mason denied any sexual attack.

He allegedly lured Marjorie into the woods from a playground by telling her a house father at the privately-financed Lakeside School wanted to see her. Little Esther was killed because she insisted with childish stubbornness on tagging along. All three youngsters boarded at Lakeside.

Rockland County Dist. Atty. John Skahan said Mason admitted the slayings and quoted the youth as saying:

"I couldn't get rid of Esther. Esther started to cry and I tried to chase her away. I didn't know what to do. I was angry, panicky, so I took out my knife and put it in her back."

"I went around the (brush) pile and met Marjorie. She saw the bloody knife sticking out of my pocket. She screamed. I could not stand her screams. I don't know why, but I picked up a rock and hit her over the head with it."

Mason threw the knife in a pool about 150 feet from Esther's body—and that was his undoing. In questioning the 144 pupils at Lakeside School, investigators concentrated on Mason after he couldn't account for a knife he was known to possess. He told confused stories of having lost it.

Under renewed questioning, Mason finally told Sheriff J. Henry Mock:

"I'll take you out and show you where the knife is."

Grocer Tells Of Seeing Gail Shultz

Nazareth (AP)—A grocer came forward yesterday to tell police he had seen 18-year-old Gail Shultz about five hours before she and her half-brother, Paul, 12, were murdered last Saturday.

Alex Bajan, 33, told State police Captain Charles S. Cook that Gail came into his store—located four blocks from the Schultz home—to buy meat and groceries. Catherine Roth, a clerk in the store, confirmed that Gail had been in the day when she was found slain.

The bodies of the two youths was pulled out of Black Rock Creek, 300 yards behind their home, by their father. The creek is two miles northwest of Nazareth and about 10 miles from Easton.

Bajan said he was "sure" of the girl's identity and Cook said the grocer told him that Gail did most of the shopping for her family.

Cook said he planned to question the parents again on this point, since there had been no mention before that Gail had gone to the store before she left home—about 2 p.m.—for a walk with her brother.

Cook said Bajan was the second person, other than the parents, to state positively that they had seen at least one of the children alive on Saturday. A woman neighbor, Mrs. Harry Bassette, said she saw the children walking together. She said she also saw an unidentified man.

Arsonist Blamed In Easton Fires

Easton (AP)—The second fire in two days yesterday destroyed a three-story frame building on the Lafayette College campus.

Dr. Ralph C. Hutchinson, college president, attributed the fire to an arsonist.

Today's blaze occurred in an unoccupied building formerly used by a college eating group, the Leopard Club. On Tuesday night fire badly damaged a 130-year old classroom and office building.

Verdict Returned Against Buchman

Washington (AP)—Sidney Buchman, a highly paid writer-producer in Hollywood until he publicly acknowledged he had been a member of the Communist party, was convicted yesterday of contempt of Congress.

Buchman, 51, faces a sentence up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. He was allowed to remain free on bond pending sentencing Monday.

Coffee Prices Decontrolled; Price To Rise

Washington (AP)—The government yesterday abolished all remaining price ceilings on consumer goods.

The most spectacular result may be an increase of as much as 10 cents in the retail price of a pound of coffee. The Office of Price Stabilization predicted as much, and New York coffee traders concurred.

The price of beer may go up slightly, although officials of the Rheingold Breweries in New York, a big Eastern distributor, said they saw no reason to expect a rise.

Yesterday's decontrol order, affecting goods that sell at the rate of 40 billion dollars a year, brought to a temporary pause the six-week price-thawing drive of the Eisenhower administration.

Steel, machine tools, alloying metals, cans and sulphuric acid—mostly items which bulk large in mobilization spending—may remain under ceilings until April 30.

On that date all controls go overboard with the expiration of price-wage control authority, and OPS vanishes.

Besides coffee and instant coffees, beer and ale, yesterday's decontrol list included hot water heaters and garbage disposers, metal building materials, soybeans and all animal feeds which had been controlled, the No. 2 heating oil which is used in the Northeast, most chemicals, many industrial materials, and some types of industrial machinery.

Prices of the feeds and building materials are not expected to rise, OPS said. Some beers and ales may go up 3 per cent, which means one-half of one cent a can or bottle. Fuel oil may rise if a cold snap depletes Eastern supplies, but stocks were reported ample.

Coffee thus became the major price problem for housewives. OPS indicated that grocers and dealers would be unable to prevent a rise because producers in Brazil and elsewhere already are asking prices which are above the domestic ceiling.

Standard coffee brands have jumped about four cents in food markets in the past week, OPS said. Prices now range from 89 to 95 cents. Another 10 to 12 cents may be added, officials predicted, although trade sources said grocers and retailers may try to absorb some of the foreign increase.

"If it goes over $1," one big New York coffee merchant said, "we'll run into severe consumer resistance."

As a result of the sweeping new regulation, no item listed in the official consumer price index now remains under ceiling. Only 5 per cent of the products making up the wholesale index are still controlled.

First Atomic Hospital Ready For Business

Chicago (AP)—The first hospital in America specifically designed for atomic age treatments will open for business today.

It is the Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne Cancer Research Hospital—an institution being equipped to offer every known type of radiation thought useful in cancer treatment.

The commission put up $4,200,000 to pay for its construction. The University of Chicago will operate it as part of the university's South Side Cancer Research Center.

The new hospital has thick walls and many rooms are heavily shielded. Two of its eight floors are underground as a precaution against radiation hazard. It has so many intricate equipment, so many laboratories and treatment rooms that bed space for patients will be limited to two floors.

Engineer Charges Voice Emasculated

Washington (AP)—A radio engineer charged yesterday the Voice of America "emasculated" a Vienna, Austria, radio transmitter which had been designed to blanket practically all Russia with propaganda broadcasts.

Two State Department radio specialists immediately denied the charge.

The engineer, Glenn D. Gillett of Washington, testified that structural changes in a radio transmitting tower the Voice built in Austria reduced the tower's efficiency by 75 per cent. The result, he said, was "an emasculated station."

Egypt's Queen Separated From Ex-King Farouk

Zurich, Switzerland (AP)—Egypt's young Queen Nari-man left ex-King Farouk, her husband of less than two years, in Rome yesterday and flew to Switzerland amid reports she has agreed to a divorce or separation.

Through a legal spokesman in Rome, the deposed roly-poly King bitterly blamed his mother-in-law and political enemies in Egypt, but again denied that he is going to divorce the 19-year-old mother of his only son.

He admitted, however, that Nari-man may be tiring of her exile and that he was awaiting future developments.

Frowning, Queen Nari-man ignored newsmen's questions when she stepped from the plane here.

Defense Chief Cuts Civilian Employment

Washington (AP)—In an economy order, Secretary of Defense Wilson last night ordered the military departments to cut civilian employment by 39,340 by the end of May.

The total number of civilians employed by the armed forces is now slightly more than 1,327,000. The reductions ordered last night will be made in two stages. By April 30, a reduction of 26,400 is to be made. Further cuts will bring the total reduction to 39,340 by May 31.

The present civilian payroll of the Defense Department runs about 4½ billion dollars a year. Officials estimated that the cuts in civilian employment would save approximately 33 million dollars between now and the end of the government fiscal year, June 30.

In a memorandum to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, Wilson said that he hoped that deeper cuts can be made after completion of the economy analysis ordered for all government departments last month by the Budget Bureau.

Wilson coupled his specific civilian cutback order with instructions to the service secretaries to reduce the number of military personnel assigned to administrative and headquarters duties.

Ammo Lack Substantiated

Washington (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday ordered a full-fledged investigation into ammunition shortages in Korea and declared that complaints by Gen. James A. Van Fleet have been "fully substantiated."

Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said the inquiry by special five-man subcommittee will attempt to pin down responsibility for the shortages.

"We want to see if the shortages resulted from too much butter and not enough guns," Saltonstall said.

But the Massachusetts senator also made it clear that the investigation will get down to personalities, as well as economic factors, and is designed to meet a demand by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) that any offenders be punished.

Lenten Meditation

Submitted From the Rectory
St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church

"When you fast, be not as the hypocrites, sad. For they disfigure their faces, that they may appear to fast unto men. Amen I say to you, that they have received their reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine head and wash thy face; that thou appear not to men to fast, but to thy Father who is in secret; and thy Father, who seeth in secret will repay thee." St. Matt. 6:16-19.

Hypocrites are they whose minds are too much on outward appearances. They aim to edify rather than please God. We should try to please God, not to "edify" anybody.

Let us practice interior bodily mortifications by observing the fast if we are able, without too easily seeking pretexts for being exempted. At all events, let us refrain from taking those things which we can possibly do without at table.

Let us also practice spiritual mortifications in striving energetically against our vices and evil inclinations. Let us refrain from taking part in worldly pleasures and amusements, and lead a recollected life—a life of doing good.

Let us reflect that we have to make a good Easter Communion, May Lent be for us the beginning of a new mode of life.

"Lay not up to yourselves treasures on earth, where rust and moth consume, and where thieves break through and steal. But lay up to yourselves treasures in Heaven, where neither rust nor moth doth consume, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. For where thy treasure is, there is thy heart also." St. Matt. 6:19-21.

PSES Notes Increase In Activities

A general increase in traffic at the East Stroudsburg office, Pennsylvania State Employment Service was noted by Carl Denz, acting manager, in reporting his headquarters' activities for 1952.

All phases of operation at the office were up over 1951, Denz reported. He attributed this to the expanded use of the office by both applicants and employers, and to an enlargement of services to the communities.

Last year a total of 41,409 visits were made to the East Stroudsburg office by applicants seeking work, applying for unemployment compensation or seeking information.

The figure also applies to employers placing orders for workers, requesting labor market information and using other services. In 1951 the traffic was registered at 28,945.

New registrants for work also increased last year with the requests by 1,722, compared to 1,458 in 1951. Applicants interviewed also was augmented, with 2,334 seeking information by interviews compared to 2,073 in 1951.

Of the 2,334 applicants considered for jobs, Denz said, 1,592 were referred by the local office to employers. Out-of-area employers received 39 of the applicants, the remaining 1,553 going to local business and industrial plants.

Job placements were hiked during the year with 1,475 applicants finding assistance through the local office. This was an increase of 65 over 1951.

Denz said 827 of the total placements resulted from direct referral by the local office of registered applicants. The remaining 648 were recruited from outside the area through the clearance program operated by the employment service.

Explaining the clearance program Denz said orders for workers to meet labor needs of an employer are sent to other PSES offices when the supply here is inadequate to meet the demand. The other offices supply suitable applicants for referral to employers, making available a state and nation-wide recruiting system for obtaining workers.

Tourist Finds It Difficult To Bid Goodbye To Rome, A City So Lovely And Alive

(Following is the eighteenth of a series of travel articles written by Ruth Haller Ottaway, mother of James H. Ottaway, publisher of The Daily Record.)

By Ruth Haller Ottaway

Rome—Rome is not a city to leave. It welcomes you warmly and reluctantly lets you go. Where can one find such rare combination of ancient art and history, beauty of nature, and cosmopolitanism?

It is filled with classic ruins. More than three hundred fountains grace its squares, all designed by classic artists. Fountains without end test from the river Tiber filling Rome with pulsing life and light.

You think of Rome as a golden city with its yellow pastel buildings and as a city of the far distant past with its centuries old Roman walls and archways, one dating back to A. D. 70.

The remains of the Roman Forum and Colosseum in moonlight haunt you, and always with you are the huge St. Peter's Cathedral, Michelangelo's frescoes in the Sistine Chapel—and the Vittore Emanuele Monument—there you are, dear old "birthday-cake!"

You can take all of this in mentally because the cafes of Rome keep you purring physically. Who cares about Tivoli (a 30-mile drive from Rome) if he is not first well-fed?

Our favorite restaurant is Capparichio, friendly, comfortable with excellent food from pizza to steak and wickedly delicious marron pastry at a reasonable price.

At the Lowenbrau you find unbelievably mild sauer kraut and light, puffy sausages that let you sleep like a baby. Sauer kraut in Rome!

Dal Pompiere (with the fire-pumper) gave us sizzling cannelloni in individual ensembles. With the "Voice of America" and his wife and other friends, we descended upon this simple place. It is hard to say which was more delightful, the cannelloni or our chat in the kitchen with the whole family who run the place.

There they were from mama to the mature sons and daughters and their children. The same bright eyes shone at us from each face, the same Italian noses pointed at us, and the same broad smiles bade us good-night after we agreed that their cannellonis would bring two dollars each in their dream city, New York.

It was sheer pleasure to walk on the clean streets of Rome, to see the fine-looking people, and to feel their content. The funniest sight was Roman men always walking with their hands clasped behind them. One seemed meditative and natural, but three walking together looked like three blackbirds with their wings soberly folded.

Mardi Gras parties were beginning and costumed children appeared on the streets with their nurses. Two little girls dressed like eighteenth century belles trotted by one Sunday on the Via Veneto, their costumes of fine silk and design, their capes of fine fur, their coiffures chic and their hats modish.

In the Winter sunshine, people sat at out-door tables drinking coffee and wine.

What is that intangible something that gives a city such definite character? New York, so tailored, so sophisticated, so stimulating with its buildings piercing the sky, clean-cut and unadorned; London, so solid and satisfying; Paris with its special grace; and Rome fantastically old and new, lovely and alive.

We shall go back to Rome. What an interfering hussy, that "Espresso" train that spirited us away from Rome in the dark of the night.

The engine which powered the first Wright airplane was made in their bicycle shop with three power tools, a drill press, a lathe and a bandsaw.

Groups Discuss Alleviation Of Stream Pollution Problem

Efforts Made To Reopen Plating Plant

Efforts to alleviate a stream pollution problem which forced the shut-down of Art Metal Company's plating department about a year ago, were discussed yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Industrial Relations Committee of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, company and officials of International Association of Machinists (AFL) in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Jacob Wachtman, executive secretary for the Chamber of Commerce, explained the resultant conclusion was that an engineering problem confronting the firm was the only factor of question at present.

According to Wachtman, if Art Metal can build a unit to purify the water to Brodheads Creek the problem will be solved.

He added the approval for operating would be contingent on tests by the State Sanitary Water Board. If they are satisfied, and initial maintenance costs to the firm are within reason, the plating department probably will resume operations, he said.

The plating department, it was learned, employed about 40 persons before orders from the state to halt operations were issued.

Wachtman applauded the harmony in planning for the return of the operation. He called attention to parts played by the State Department of Commerce, Sanitary Water Board, local Chamber of Commerce and executives and union officials of Art Metal Co.

Art Metal Company was represented by Donald Moss and David Hirschorn, executives of the parent firm, Aronson, Inc., with offices in Newark, N. J., and H. A. Garaventi, plant manager and Frank Dailey, personnel director of the East Stroudsburg plant.

Union representation was headed by Adam Yockel of the Grand Lodge, International Machinists; Emerson Stanton, business agent, of Scranton; John Cruise, Peter Albertson, Thomas Jenkinson and Joseph Andress, local union committee.

Sen. Montgomery Crowe, chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee, Chamber of Commerce, was spokesman for his group which included Hanford Cleveland, Gilbert Smiz, Dale Larn, Robert Jones, William Wyckoff and Wachtman.

Discussion Centers On Report Cards

The faculty of East Stroudsburg Junior High School and a group of parents with children enrolled in the school met last night to discuss the topic of improving marking and reporting practices.

The session opened with a "get acquainted period" during which light refreshments were served. Theodore Miller, Junior High School principal, served as moderator of the discussion.

Among the questions raised by the parents was how often during the year the report card should be issued. Should the grades be given in the form of percentages, letters A, B, C, D, or letters S-Satisfactory, U-Unsatisfactory, I-Improving?

Should the teachers comments be positive or negative in nature? Should the report card show whether a child is working up to his capacity?

The parents in attendance were: Mrs. John W. Gray, Mrs. Wendell Wicks, Mrs. Morton Barrow, Mrs. Camille Harvey, Mrs. Catherine Abel, Mrs. Edwin Smith, Mrs. Freda Hummel, Mrs. Virginia Brimer, Mrs. Morris Peckman, Rev. Norman Savage, Paul Dellaria, Mrs. Ralph Lesoine.

The group plans to meet again Thursday, March 26.

County Firemen Authorize Drafting Of Ordinance To Lessen Brush Fire Problem

The Monroe County Firemen's Assn. took initial steps at the meeting last night to alleviate the menace of brush fires, which harass volunteer fire companies in the county.

Meeting at the fire headquarters in the Stroudsburg Municipal building, the brush fire question—due in great measure to carelessness—was generally discussed.

The group eventually authorized the appointment of a committee of five to draw up a tentative ordinance covering the question with provisions for placing penalties on those responsible.

The ordinance is to be submitted at the May meeting at Pocono Pines. If approved, it will be submitted to the various boards of supervisors in the townships of the county for action.

Those named on the committee are: Frank Rehm, Stroud Township; Ralph Miller, Marshalls Creek; George Kitchen, Saylorburg; Edward Metzger, Pocono Township; and Fred Decker, Delaware Water Gap.

Brush fires have resulted recently in many calls for fire companies to put them out and prevent expensive expense. Stroud Township department had six in two days.

Under certain conditions the state can be called on to pay for time the firemen spend on a fire, it was brought out, but this is not general. Numerous other phases were mentioned.

The annual nomination and election of officers took place at the meeting. Under the by-laws of the association, a president can't succeed himself. Elwood C. Huffman, of Marshalls Creek, was elected president and Marlin A. Bitterman, Tannersville, the retiring president, was chosen vice president. The new secretary-treasurer succeeding Edward Judge, of Pocono Pines, is Edward F. Metzger, Tannersville.

A letter was read from Sr. Major May R. Adam, of the Salvation Army, suggesting procuring a large coffee urn to provide coffee for firemen in action during cold weather particularly. This would cost about $100. Major Adam said the Salvation Army would serve in this area as it does in many others. The group felt that firemen's auxiliaries acted in this capacity in many sections. A letter of thanks will be sent Major Adam for the suggestion.

Jack Anderson, assistant Civil Defense director in Monroe County appeared before the body and stated that federal contributions were greatly oversubscribed for CD fire equipment.

In Pennsylvania it amounted to 200 per cent, he said. This meant that some applications for equipment would not be granted. All the applications from Monroe County companies have cleared the state headquarters in Harrisburg, he said, and would be sent to Washington for final approval.

Anderson informed the group that fire sirens were now available through CD.

Cards containing dates for meetings for display in fire houses were distributed.

Last night's meeting was attended by 40 firemen representing nine affiliated fire companies.

Harold Albert, Stroud Twp., acted as secretary in place of Edward Judge, Pocono Pines, reported ill and whose daughter was said to have been injured yesterday morning in motor accident on her way to school.

Safety first movies were shown by Capt. T. Manning Curtis and refreshments were served by the house committees of the Phoenix and Chemical Cos., the hosts.

Holy Name Society Names Committee To Direct Campaign Against Filthy Literature

Holy Name Society, St. Matthew's Catholic Church, this week named a committee to survey "filthy literature" on newsstands and in candy stores in this area.

Speaking before the society, Rev. Michael Kennedy declared all this immoral literature and publications... are having a very drastic effect on youth.

Rev. Kennedy cited from figures released by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, which, he said, showed "sex crimes up 142 percent in the past 10 years."

The priest quoted Hoover as saying: "Criminals are increasing faster than we can build jails to hold them."

Society officials said last night it was the opinion of educators, churchmen and some legislators that a major part of this increase is due to literature of a type which they hope to abolish.

A spokesman for the organization said the committee will "talk to" newsstand operators, candy store proprietors and other outlets that carry allegedly obscene printed matter.

These include paperbound editions of best-sellers and comic books.

A survey of stores is slated to begin, Monday, March 16, the spokesman said.

Foremost on the list of places to be "visited," said the spokesman, are stores near schools in the area. An effort will be made to concentrate on alleged "under the counter" sales in some business houses.

Formation of the committee follows an organized plan, initiated in this area by the Scranton Diocesan Organization for Decent Literature.

As part of its "plan of procedure," this organization has released a printed sheet which outlines step by step the manner in which such "survey" should be carried out.

First of all, says the SDOOL, committee members should visit every shop in the parish selling comic books, pocket-sized books and magazines. This includes corner newsstands.

Members should work in teams of "two or three" the paper continues, each assigned to "no more than three dealers" and make visits at "a time when storekeeper is able to 'confer' with workers."

After an explanation of the drive's purpose "teams" are supposed to stress the need for protection of youth morality; show managers a printed list of "objectionable" publications.

Then, says the SDOOL sheet, the team should "courteously request the privilege of examining the display of publications for sale" in the shop.

If the censors find no "objectionable" titles they are then supposed to "commend" the owner or manager and give him "favorable publicity" in church publications.

If, on the other hand, alleged "objectionable" titles are found on the shelves or racks, the censor are supposed to "recommend" that the owner remove them from sale.

"When the dealer complies (with this request) favorable publicity should be given him," the sheet continues.

In the event that a shop owner should "refuse cooperation," according to the SDOOL instructions, workers should "leave silently." "Little is ever gained by argument," it points out, "but silence can often be most effective."

When the censors run into any such refusal of cooperation they are supposed to report it to their pastor or moderator who determines "future action."

SDOOL suggests publishing names of "cooperating" dealers in church bulletins.

Each team will submit a "detailed report" to council headquarters. The grand knight will then make a summary of reports and forward it to district deputy. District deputy will in turn forward reports to diocesan office on the "number of stores in his area which are cooperating and the number which are not."

Locally, ten members have been appointed to the committee formed by the Holy Name Society. These are Chester Mertens, Walter Peeney, Joseph McCuskey, George Rung, Anthony Mazzetti, Joseph Webster, William Lopez, Charles Zateeney, Julius Colonius and Gordon Coy.

Other members will be named to the survey, later, a spokesman said last night.

"This is a long-term project. It's nothing we can do overnight," he added.

Three College Girls Injured As Car Skids

Mount Pocono—Three East Stroudsburg State Teachers College students were treated in the dispensary at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, following a 10 a.m. accident near here yesterday.

Hospital attaches listed the students as Mary Mulligan, 19, of Pocono Lake; June Perruso, 20, of East Bangor, and Georgine Judge, 19, of Pocono Pines.

Miss Mulligan was treated for fractures of the left ankle and bone of the face; Miss Perruso received scalp and leg lacerations and Miss Judge suffered a lacerated right knee.

Tobyhanna Township ambulance took the trio to the hospital after treatment at the scene by Dr. E. O. Headrick, who accompanied them to the hospital.

Dr. Headrick said the accident occurred on Route 940, near Pocono Manor. The car skidded on the icy road and plunged into a small ravine.

West End School Site

Selection of a site for the proposed new $1 million Pleasant Valley school by a joint board of the West End deserves commendation.

Once again we emphasize we are not the least bit interested in backing any particular site. We are interested in seeing that the young people of these townships get the school facilities they badly need and so thoroughly deserve.

The Pleasant Valley Joint School Board now has all the powers they need to proceed with acquiring the site. Apparently, they are in agreement with the owners of the largest portion, the Switzgale Brothers, on a price of $325 an acre.

As for the little two and a half acre slice owned by someone else and, apparently, not yet priced, we are sure board members have the fairness and ability to come to a swift settlement with this owner. Certainly they have all the powers under the law to do so.

The Wrong Approach

The skepticism with which legislators are entering the economy hearings growing out of the Chesterman (Little Hoover) Commission report is not likely to win any cheers from the state's voting taxpayers.

No one, Mr. Chesterman included, expected that the legislature would accept in full the program of proposed economies as written. But the least they could expect, and the least the taxpayer should get, is a fair shake. Referring to the program as a "turkey that can't be accomplished," as did one legislator, is taking the whole problem a bit too fluffily.

If the legislators take the whole matter lightly, with a large dose of skepticism, chances are that the program will come a cropper. But if they recognize the tenor of the people, they will give the Chesterman report careful analysis and see how much of the proposed $100 million a biennium they can save.

The national government is setting a pattern for others by eliminating waste, inefficiency and bloated payrolls in an effort to bring our federal budget into balance with revenue. The people last November gave their opinion of the old system of tax and spend by voting the Democrats out of office. They made it known they wanted to see some sound business practices for a change, and at least an effort toward economy.

The people haven't changed since November. They still want to see good business management in government. They want economy, and less taxes rather than more.

If the legislators laugh off the Chesterman report, they all may find pink slips in their envelopes come next election time.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Stalin's Last Testament

Being of sound mind (and velvet) I Josef Stalin declare this my last will and testament:

1. To Georgi Malenkov, Lavrenti P. Beria and Vyacheslav M. Molotov I leave my routines, formulas, road maps and world ambitions, giving to each a copy of my instructions on how to sleep with one eye open, and of my book "Trust One Another but Check All Floor Creaks." I bequeath to Georgi Malenkov all my costumes for the top role in the operas, "Call Me Brother," "I Am a Dovecot," and "Iron Curtain Love Song," also my armored cars, secret panels, smoke screens, etc. I further bequeath to Malenkov my own certified list of Russian inventors, and the famous Josef Stalin "Funnies," otherwise known as the official pictures taken with Roosevelt, Churchill and Truman at Potsdam, Toberan and Yalta. I wish Georgi luck. In this business you'll need it.

2. To the United Nations I bequeath my cast-off spiked shoes, my last year's lead pipe inscribed "Brotherhood," my brass knuckles with the inscription "Love Is Like That," my new device "DX-5" for magnifying the voices of all Russian speakers in the General Assembly, my entire collection of sleeves employed in Kremlin "Laughing-up-the-Sleeves" (I also bequeath it Grumpyko).

3. I leave to the Polish and Czechoslovakian delegates to U. N. complete copies of all speeches made by Kremlin delegates in the last five years with instructions never to change a line or syllable even in fun.

4. To all glibbly, baffled, un-informed, dissatisfied peoples, especially those out of touch with events and facts, I leave my slogan for happier days "Do It My Way or Else!" my book "If It Makes Sense It's a Lie" and the world-famous Stalin collection of Upside-Down Pictures.

5. To Comrade Vishinsky I bequeath a sufficient sum to cover trips homeward on the Liberte, pay for the sleeping pills en route; and a place on the All-Moscow video panel of "What's My Line?"

6. I bequeath to all my former allies, protectors and buddies in the last world war my paintings "The Iceman Cometh," "Friendship My Eye," "Never Give A Sucker An Even Break" and "We Went Thataway;" also my still-life entitled "Double Cross With Apples and Watercress." (And they can now have that icebreaker. I won't need it where I am.)

7. To anybody extending lease lend at any time I leave my old laundry checks, punched railroad tickets, discarded streetcar transfers, outlawed bus tokens and best wishes for a Happy New Year (collect).

8. To Foster Dulles, Henry Lodge, Gladwyn Jebb and all other speakers for liberty, a free world, the bill of rights and international amity I leave embossed copies of my work "In One Ear and Out the Other."

9. I bequeath to mothers and fathers of all the dead and wounded in the fight against Russian conquest my continued indifference and autographed copies of my celebrated "All-Occasions" speech, "They Ganged Up On Me."

10. I bequeath to all exponents of the belief that there are two sides to every question my deepest contempt and a new 20-year plan for Greater Leers and Sneers.

Codicil—I leave instructions to my successors that no matter what happens to cause trouble anywhere on this planet it be blamed on the ruling circles of the U. S. A.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Policy Changes In Navy's Oil Reserves Is Dynamite

Washington — The tideland oil issue is getting the headlines, but there is another oil controversy sputtering in the background that may prove equally explosive.

This potential bombshell was considered at great length in the House Armed Services Committee at a meeting that went unnoticed, but which deserves the widest public attention.

For what the Committee discussed were certain far-reaching changes that have recently been put into effect regarding the Navy's vital oil reserves.

These reserves are political dynamite, as a result of the Teapot Dome scandals 30 years ago. While members of the Armed Services Committee made no direct reference to this notorious affair, the nature of their comments left no doubt it was uppermost in their minds.

That was particularly evident among Democratic committee-men. They gave every sign of being acutely on the alert for the chance to raise a stormy partisan outcry of "hot oil" against the Eisenhower Administration.

The highly significant policy changes, as discussed by the House Committee, are as follows: The halting of further exploration and development operations on the Navy's Petroleum Reserve, No. 4, Point Barrow, Alaska, on which upwards of $40,000,000 has already been spent.

Around the same time that Navy Secretary Anderson was authorizing this shutdown, Interior Secretary McKay gave Phillips Petroleum Company right to drill for oil on a lot of other government land in Alaska.

Shortly after this, Secretary Anderson approved an increase in production at the Navy's Petroleum Reserve, No. 1, Elk Hills, Cal., from 6,200 to 18,000 barrels a day. Part owner of this valuable property is Standard Oil of California, which recommended the hike in daily output.

Still under consideration by Secretary Anderson is another big boost in production at the Navy's Petroleum Reserve, No. 2, at Buena Vista, Cal. This increase is being urged by General American Oil Company of Texas and the D. D. Feldman Oil & Gas Company, which are also seeking a raise in their royalty rates from 12.5 to 14 percent.

Note: Last year, the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee, following a study of the Navy's Alaskan oil reserves, reported: "Two minor oilfields and one gas field had been discovered prior to the Subcommittee's visit. The base camp at Point Barrow is heated by natural gas. Shows of oil have been found in every well which has been drilled. During the Subcommittee's visit, a well of significant size, producing 550 barrels per day, was brought in at Umiat. These successes have greatly encouraged interest in the project, and while there is still no certainty as to the existence of a major oilfield, it is the belief of all persons talked to by the Subcommittee that the chances are excellent that such a discovery will be made."

Persons—Thanks to militant congressional bombarding, Captain Hyman Rickover, the Navy's top atomic expert, has been saved from premature retirement and will be promoted to Admiral and retained on active duty. But there is no sailor in sight for 102 other senior captains who are slated for shelving on June 30; one of them a holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, 10 winners of the Navy Cross and 7 who were awarded the Silver Star for exceptional heroism in combat.

One close friend of President Eisenhower has carefully not visited him since he entered the White House. This cynic is portly George Allen, one-time RFC Director, who is also an intimate of former President Truman. Allen was a guest of the President in the White House stands at the inauguration ceremony, but has not seen him since because, says Allen, "I know enough about Washington to know the difference between political and personal friendship. A President must be aloof; he can't have any close friends. He has to think more of the country than he does of personal friends. So I'm staying away from him because I don't want to do anything that might possibly embarrass him."

Senator Lister Hill is a veteran Democrat from Alabama while Representative Laurence Curtis is a rookie Republican from Massachusetts, but they look so much alike that they are constantly being mistaken for one another. Says Curtis, "The first time I saw Hill, I could hardly believe my eyes. I had to look twice to make sure I wasn't seeing double."

Girl Scouts — Joan Huffman was elected Treasurer of the Stroudsburg Girl Scouts; Joan Stoffel, scribe; and Bonnie Arnold, Anne Fleming and Jane Lift, color guards, at a meeting held at the YMCA.

Pinchle — Mrs. E. B. Carlton will entertain her pinchle club tomorrow. Members besides Mrs. Carlton are Mrs. P. S. Gross, Mrs. Mary Brown and Mrs. Stella Butts.

Birthday — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dennis, Sciota, entertained in honor of the birthday of their little son, Carl, and also the birthdays of Mrs. A. L. Dennis, Mrs. John Carner and Oscar Metzger. Also the birthdays of Mrs. Maude Hufford and her daughter, Mrs. Sterling Warner, were celebrated with a surprise party at Mrs. Hufford's home on Ann street.

Y. P. S. — Miss Dorothy Pennington was vocalist at the meeting of the Young People's Society of E. S. Methodist Church.

P. T. — The P. T. Association meeting at Tunkhannock township included speeches and music. The program was in charge of Carl Gower.

Broadening Scope Of Communist Probes Involves Variety Of Dangers, Pitfalls

Everybody's Game

There was a time when it was very difficult indeed to get a Congressman to serve on a Congressional committee investigating Communists. Now, everybody seems to want to get into the game. In fact, it is being proposed that a Committee on Un-American Activities be appointed in each State of the Union. That would mean altogether 51 committees delving into the same field, to say nothing about the FBI, the CIA, and a number of private groups.

From my long experience in this field, going back to 1917, I cannot avoid opposing such a plan. It means that hundreds of untrained, unprepared, even illiterate investigators, so far as this field is concerned, will be harassing and annoying citizens with stupid questions unrelated to the subject. It takes years of the hardest kind of homework to produce counsels of the ability of Robert Morris or Roy Cohn; it takes vast training to avoid involving innocent persons or reaching false conclusions.

I also fear the professional witness. In this category, I do not include Louis Budenz or Elizabeth Bentley, who have found testifying a dread and unhappy task from which both have sought to free themselves. Nor do I include such a man as Dr. J. B. Matthews, whose extensive knowledge should be at the disposal of his country. I do include in the category of professional witnesses men and women who, make statements without evidence, who reach conclusions without knowledge. The correct anti-Communist seeks to convert Communists to service to America; he wishes to encourage every ex-Communist to provide whatever information he has. In this field, important results have been achieved. The best testimony before Congressional committees has come from such men and women who have been won over to the cause of serving America in its conflict with Soviet Russia.

These results are not lightly accomplished. It sometimes takes years for an ex-Communist to overcome the psychological shock of the break. It is not only a matter of humiliation, of the breakdown of the ego, of admitting a life of error and even treason; it also involves a renunciation and sometimes a denunciation of loved ones, even of husbands and wives.

I know of a man whose first wife involved his life in actions and events of which he was innocent. Some of them are important to this country. He and that wife are divorced, but he is gentle and moral and finds it almost beyond endurance to speak ill of a person whom he had loved and who had mothered his child. As investigations close in on him, although he would tell all he knows, he is tortured by the thought of taking refuge behind the skirts of a wife who betrayed him.

Trained and competent anti-Communists understand these emotional problems and treat them with delicacy. They do not want to "get" such people; they want them to feel the need of serving the United States. It may surprise many to know that the FBI, as a police force, has been most understanding and sympathetic in its handling of such personalities. This explains the success of the FBI. It has not frightened its witnesses from seeing their duty and doing it.

Throw this field open to committees in 48 states; build up a huge force of men and women who earn a living through such investigations; put it into politics and give each committee a few professional witnesses, and the anti-Communist effort will be defeated. It will defeat itself.

Some speak of the work of a self-appointed committee, advised by a group of ex-Communists, who have actually succeeded in destroying the Communist treasury in Hollywood. It is demonstrable that more persons who once erred are now able to find employment in Hollywood, since this group started its work in April 1951, than immediately before that time.

They have used three principles: 1. A person cannot be cleared by another; as he made his own record, only he can correct it; 2. It is not necessary to employ lawyers, fixers, or anyone for this purpose; whoever takes money to help a man to restore his status as a decent citizen is not to be trusted; 3. Whatever is done must not destroy the dignity of person, the self-respect of the convert to patriotism.

10 Years 20 Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

One of the most significant incidents of religious dissension happened in Olney, England. We have done an awful lot of talking about the cooperation of Christians and Jews, of Catholics and Protestants, of creeds and races and colors.

But how sincere are we really about it? How do we really feel in our hearts about the equality of all human beings?

At a luncheon held in New York during brotherhood week, Judge Webster J. Oliver of the U. S. Customs Court, addressed an audience of 500 people of all faiths.

"Many people brag that they are tolerant," he said. "How wrong they are. Tolerance is condescending. It implies that the one who is tolerant is greater than the one on whom tolerance is bestowed. We are all equal before God."

The audience applauded enthusiastically. But I wonder how many of those present were merely TOLERANT of the one next to him.

Every year in Olney, England, they hold a race for the world's championship in what seems to me an extremely silly competition.

Housewives from all over the writer labelled a "second Ty Cobb."

Statistics from Uruguay reveal that that South American nation has eight times as many sheep as people. What mystifies us is how the census taker managed to stay awake.

Groceries are urged to return to the old "cracker barrel" atmosphere. O. K., but don't ask us to eat the crackers!

The world, means an editorial, is in a state of confusion. Not the world, mister, just the people who live in it!

A Denmark shoemaker advertised for tramps, to test a new type shoe. Nobody showed up. Didn't he know that tramps never walk—they ride the rails.

Maybe that's why nobody appoints me Ambassador.

When Mrs. Clare Booth Luce was appointed Ambassador to Italy, she had to give the Senate Foreign Relations Committee her assurance that she "would not have any relations whatsoever with the Vatican, formal or informal, open or secret."

I don't know what I would have done if I had been appointed Ambassador. The chance is too remote.

But I THINK I would have said, "I intend to have relations with ALL men who stand for peace, regardless of their religion. Did God tell Christ not to have any relations with ALL men? Cannot America and the Vatican work together for PEACE? Is not real brotherhood the brotherhood of Protestants, Catholics and Jews alike?"

Maybe that's why nobody appoints me Ambassador.

At the end of the race Mrs. Dix fainted and collapsed into the arms of the Rev. Ronald W. Collins, vicar of the church.

The vicar called for water to revive her before she could receive the winner's traditional "kiss of peace" from Verger Bill Maunard.

But then there was confusion. Mrs. Dix, Irish-born and a Roman Catholic, refused to enter the church for the Shrove Tuesday service which has followed the race ever since it first was begun some time in the 15th century.

The Vicar, however, insisted that she must attend the service if she wanted to be declared the winner. That has been the rule ever since the very first race.

Mrs. Dix finally offered a compromise and the Vicar accepted.

The usual service was held, with the winner of the race sitting on the church porch while the choir intoned praises to God in the Highest.

Joan Crawford deplored Marilyn Monroe's sexy publicity the other edition.

The current Rave mag offers a photo of Joan displaying her thigh-eye-ful! . . . A movie mag's idea of news: Robert Taylor's home is serv-antless. (How Rugged!) . . .

Movietown is staging pashy pictures in an effort to scare away the box-office blues. . . . Ironically, the current financial champ is the Wholesale-As-Milk "Peter Pan" . . . Why did the "Voice of Firestone" program start off with (on the day of Stalin's funeral) "Follow the Flame"? It is from "Song of Russia" and is the Bolshevik Marching Song in that operetta. . . . Marlon Brando will be Pal Joey (in the film version) with a dub singing the chimes for him. . . . Johnny Green's album of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" (the Ziegfeld's hit) is mightily glisten-able. . . . Especially the stringy-fiddle-dee-dee . . . Paulette Goddard's candor: "I look most beautiful in a bathtub" . . . (End of State.)

Roz Russell's strenuous fooling in "Wonderful Town" becomes more remarkable when you recall she was a Very Sick Girl several seasons ago. . . . When we tossed orchids at Bette Davis (and her broozy show) a few months ago, we told intimates. "If she sticks it out they might get back their money." We had a hunch Bette merely wanted to prove she could click (in a musical) which she did. . . . The strain of Carrying The Load finally knocked her down. . . . Esther Williams announced that she loves her husband. In Hollywood that's "Big News" . . . Pearl Bailey's recorded singalong "Hug Me a Hug," hugs the ears. . . . Does anybody look lovelier in Technicolor than Arleen (Must Be Heaven) Whalen? Red tresses, emerald orbs and an Omigosh finger. . . . The climatic episode "Picnic" (where Janice Rule and Ralph Meeker execute a slow and tantalizing dance) is downright slia-ting. . . . Talk about lucky guys, La Monroe has a male sokkatree.

Ray Malone's teevy hoofing rates a citation. Mr. Taptoe's routines are always tip-top-tappy. . . . Gagnificent is the word for any James Durante teevy show. . . . The soon due film, "Girls of Pleasure Island," takes place on a tropical isle where there are 1500 U. S. Marines and 3 gals. (What terrible odds) . . . The Frank & Laine-Jimmy Boyd platter of "The Little Boy and The Old Man" offers something you rarely encounter among pop tunes: Lyrical beauty. . . . Ann Southern's teevy series, "Private Sec'y," had a so-so start. But recent episodes have been Jokay. . . . Cosmopolitan is enhanced by a prose sketch of lovely Vanessa Brown of "7 Year Itch." It notes she has a tall IQ. Her loveliness is more compelling than her snartry pants rep. . . . Then we offer you the evictive swimsuit photo of Mara Corday in People Today mag. . . . "Mid-Summer," at the Vanderbilt, had a dozen standees at the Wed. Mat. The swell show was $15.00 over last week's biz yesterday.

George Jessel, back from a quick look-see at the Borscht circuit, says a wallet was found in the hotel lobby and the manager asked him to announce it at dinner. So Jessel orated: "Folks, a wallet containing about a hundred dollars has just been found in the lobby. Will the person or persons who lost it please form a double line at the cashier's window?" One guest told Jessel he ran a pants factory called Lefkowitz and O'Shanghnessy. "I'm surprised," admitted George. "This! surprise you even more," confided the guest "I'm O'Shanghnessy!"

PUC Schedules Milford Hearing

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Public Utility Commission yesterday set April 2 for a hearing at Milford on the Erie Railroad's application to abandon passenger train service at four Pike County stations.

Protests have been filed against the railroad's proposal to discontinue two trains that run between Port Jervis and Binghamton, N. Y., stopping at Mill Rift, Pond Eddy, Parkers Glen and Westcolton Park.

Among the protests is one from the Mill Rift Civic Association and a petition signed by 75 residents of the Mill Rift area.

A similar proposal to abandon the New York part of the route is under hearing by the Public Service Commission of that state.

PP&L Files For Scranton Acquisition

Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. President, Charles E. Oakes said yesterday that PP&L had filed with the Federal Power and the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commissions, necessary papers for approval of the acquisition of the Scranton Electric Co.

The filing is in connection with PP&L's recent proposal under which shareowners of Scranton Electric would exchange all outstanding stock of that company for PP&L shares.

The basis of exchange is two shares of Scranton common stock for one share of PP&L common, and one share of Scranton 4.40% cumulative preferred stock for one share of PP&L 4.40% series preferred stock.

Scranton's 3.35% cumulative preferred stock may be exchanged on an optional basis for three-quarters of one share of PP&L 4 1/2% preferred stock, or two shares PP&L common stock, for one share of a new PP&L 3.35% series preferred stock.

The new PP&L 3.35% preferred issue will have a $103.50 per share redemption price and a $100 per share liquidation price.

Upon the exchange becoming operative, PP&L board of directors will give consideration to increasing the dividend on PP&L common stock to 50c per share, not later than the first dividend payment date after the exchange becomes effective.

The increase would, of course, be subject to adequate earnings being available and to provisions in the company's charter and applicable law. The increase would make PP&L stock dividend then equivalent to the common stock dividend currently being paid Scranton Electric common shareowners.

PP&L earnings for the 12 months ending January 1953 were $2.43 per share of common stock. Dividends paid in 1952 were $1.60 per share.

Advise to new cooks: To blanch almonds, pour boiling water over them and let them stand just until the skins wrinkle. Drain the nuts and slip off the skins with your fingers. If you want to cut the blanched nuts into even slivers, do so with a small sharp knife while they're still damp and warm.

JOSEF STALIN — VII

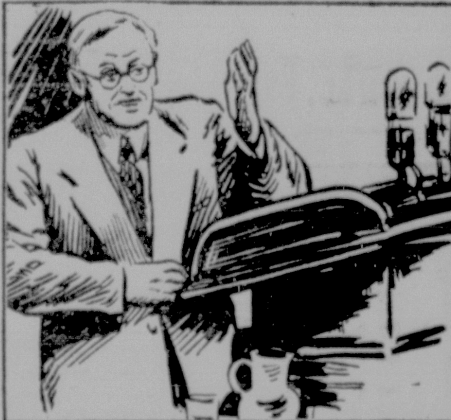

Illustrated by Central Press Association

Germany dealt the Soviet Union such staggering blows that it is doubtful if the nation could have survived without U. S. aid. At Yalta, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Britain's Winston Churchill met Stalin to plan Hitler's destruction.

Though the U. S. Third Army could have taken Berlin with ease as the Nazi regime collapsed, Stalin's Red army was permitted to be first to overrun the city, a courtesy accorded by the Allies because of Russia's ruin at Hitler's hands.

With the fall of totalitarianism (Fascist brand) the western democracies hoped for world peace and good-fellowship. It was not to be. Stalin's stooges—Andrei Vishinski, his UN mouthpiece, among them—created atmosphere of distrust.

Result: War in Korea, world-wide uneasiness and fear, and rearmament. Came 1953 and with it the approach of an enemy that not even Stalin, the shoe-maker's son who became master of half the world, could long resist—Death.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This concludes the picture story of Stalin, the Red Czar of All the Russias.

British Naval Hero Criticizes American Film

London, (AP)—A British naval war hero charged in the House of Commons that the American documentary film "Victory at Sea" is a bad film belittling Britain's naval effort in World War Two.

Capt. Robert E. D. Ryder, who holds the Victoria Cross—highest British gallantry decoration—also asked what assurances the Admiralty obtained that the film would present an accurate account of the war at sea before agreeing to co-operate with the U. S. producers.

James P. L. Thomas, first lord of the Admiralty, said the film was produced for U. S. audiences.

"The Admiralty was only too willing to place material unreservedly at the disposal of the producing company and the Admiralty naturally used all the influence it could to ensure that the operations of the Royal Navy were treated in reasonable perspective," he said.

Constitution Prevents Pennsylvania From Operating On Satisfactory Budget System

By Peter Olwyer

Most American individuals, businesses and local governments operate on a budget system.

Pennsylvania is prevented from doing this by its Constitution.

That is one of the reasons it has been urged that a Constitutional convention revamp outmoded parts of the document.

At present the legislature cannot submit a budget for the operation of all departments in the State, and appropriate money for the budget all in one piece of legislation.

The legislature must appropriate the money for different departments and purposes by separate acts.

This method clearly is outdated, in the view of former attorney-general William A. Schnader.

He believes all appropriations should be made in a single budget bill. Further, he thinks there would be little danger of "log-rolling" if the Governor retained his right to veto or reduce any single item.

The Pennsylvania Bar Association holds, with Schnader, that "A budget system to include all expenses, for charities or otherwise, should be set up."

This statement is in the recent report of the association's committee on the Constitution.

They suggest further that specific power to grant money to charitable and educational institutions not under State control also should be written into the Constitution.

They add that such grants should be in proportion to the service performed, and all should be submitted to the legislature in the budget.

As pointed out by the Pennsylvania Commission on Constitutional Amendment and Revision:

There is "a necessity for the expenditure of large sums of money annually in the support of institutions for the care of the sick, the defective and the insane."

Modern ideas of efficient government would have such appropriations worked into a single budget, the commission adds.

The present prohibition—Article III, Section 18—against charitable appropriations to persons and communities needs to be re-worded and changed, say authorities.

As it stands, the present section endangers appropriations for mothers' assistance, help to the aged who are not technically indigent, and other present or future needs for State assistance.

The commission recommends the State should be given power to pay pensions not only for military service, but also to any class of retired State servant, and to school teachers.

The section they recommend provides also that those sentenced to prison shall be employed at "useful labor and compensated for their employment."

The section puts charitable, correctional and penal institutions under government inspection and supervision; and gives power to enforce such institution laws to one or more State agencies.

Red Star in Eclipse?

Result: War in Korea, world-wide uneasiness and fear, and rearmament. Came 1953 and with it the approach of an enemy that not even Stalin, the shoe-maker's son who became master of half the world, could long resist—Death.

Traffic Deaths Slightly Higher Than Year Ago

Harrisburg, (AP)—Pennsylvania motor vehicle traffic fatalities totaled 123 in January, 1953, compared with 121 in January, 1952, the Highway Safety Bureau said yesterday.

Twenty-four counties recorded decreases in traffic deaths over January of last year. Luzerne County led this group with four fewer fatal.

Twenty-five counties showed increases in traffic deaths. Blair County led with four additional deaths.

Thirteen counties registered decreases in pedestrian deaths. Dauphin, Fayette, Lawrence and Luzerne Counties topped this group, each with two less killed.

Bucks and Cambria Counties, each with three additional pedestrian deaths, led the 15 counties recording increases.

Turnpike deaths moved upward from five to seven. William Henry Harrison saw the shortest service as President of any U. S. chief executive, dying after about a month in office.

West End C. D. Policemen To Attend School

A school for auxiliary police enrolled in Monroe County Civil Defense will be held at Chestnut Hill Township High School, Brodheadsville, next Wednesday starting at 7 p. m. Attending will be auxiliary policemen of the west end of the county.

The class was organized under direction of John C. Mills, supervising principal of Chestnut Hill Schools. The course will extend from March 18 until approximately May 6.

Mr. Mills emphasized that vacancies in the class still exist, and those interested are asked to contact him. Auxiliary police of other townships, including Hamilton, Ross, Jackson, Tunkhannock and Polk are also invited to attend.

Instruction in the school will be given by Sefellan A. Hill, of Palmerton, who has a wide experience both in police work and police teaching. Mr. Hill has already graduated classes at Tannersville and Canadensis.

Because no satisfactory engine could be bought, the Wright brothers had one built in their own bicycle shop to power their first airplane.

Disorders Occur In Czech Mines

Vienna, Austria (AP)—Serious disorders broke out at a recent meeting of Czech miners in the coal region of Moravia Ostrava, according to Czech newspaper reports.

The incident occurred when 600 miners of the Dourava coal mine used a trade union meeting to protest sharply against the government-imposed production increases.

The Czech provincial newspaper Nova Svoboda said.

The angry miners not only prevented Communist leaders from conducting the meeting, but also elected a delegation to protest to Prague against the work measure.

Day School Needs Aide, More Room

(This is the second in a series of stories on Day Care School at East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, a part of Monroe County's special education work.)

By Leonard Randolph

At present there are eight children enrolled in the Day Care School.

There are at least six or seven more in Monroe County who need this special education, according to Bennett Strait, S. E. supervisor for the Monroe-Pike-Wayne County area.

Of the eight children now enrolled, a wide variety of county communities are represented.

Shawnee, Mount Pocono, Canadensis, Meadstown, Stroudsburg and Monroe Hills each has one pupil while Bushkill has two children in the school.

When, and if, it becomes possible, the school will also take two cerebral palsy victims from the West End.

Whether it will be possible depends, almost entirely on two things.

First—the school needs, desperately, a "teacher's aide" who can take over a part of the work which is now handled completely by Harriet Sebring.

Special education pupils require greater amounts of personal attention than do pupils in regular classes. They need more of the security which comes with patience and understanding and love.

An average Day Care child cannot face the small responsibilities which other children have learned early.

He must be guided carefully through even the most simple performance until he has learned to make his mind and muscles work together.

Second on the list of things which the Day Care School needs is "a home of its own."

Without the splendid cooperation of East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church elders, the school would not have been possible in the beginning. Church laymen and their pastor, Rev. Frank Wingerter, have helped parents and teacher alike in setting up a system under which the school could be formed and made to function for the benefit of the whole community.

The fact that a real "home" is needed, however, must be faced. For with this "home" would come a permanence which no other quarters could offer.

It would be possible, then, to get up bulletin boards, blackboards and other equipment badly needed in the effort to make both life and education interesting to a child's mind which tires easily of any form of concentration.

There would be room to store those supplies which have now been to come through from State special education headquarters.

Most of all—with the combination of a teacher's aide and the new room—Day Care would be able to provide education for those out-of-place pupils who are still being shunted aside because they have "no place" in regular classrooms.

Some of these children are epileptics—victims of a disease which stalls the functions of human mind and destroys the muscular performance of the body.

Still others are physically misformed at birth—born with the stigma of an unusual, awkward body which, alone, prevents their acceptance by their more fortunate neighbors.

None of these children can help himself.

Like the "stick figures" which hang along the walls of his classroom, made from twisted pipe-cleaners to resemble animals in raw outline, the child who needs special education in classes such as those provided by Day Care School, is an "unfinished product."

Only time and the skilled, patient hands of an understanding teacher can form the flesh and the mentality which should go on that frame.

ANNIE GOT HER GUN and her man last night at Stroudsburg High School auditorium when junior class presented its version of the popular play, adapted for amateur production by its authors, minus score. Shown here, "Annie" (Pat Bartholomew) carries on a verbal shooting match with "Frank Butler" (Bruce Mackey). "Frank" is a champ with a gun. So is "Annie," who says she can outshoot any man—run, draw or sidesaddle. Play will be presented again tonight at 8.

FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Help to alleviate other's sufferings, and even their indisposition. We don't ever realize the great good a kind word, a thoughtful deed does.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—"Spring Fever" is often a good spur. It can be "lift" from within as well as through outside instigation. Put affairs in order, maintain pep.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—You are able, willing, but often skip over details and are sometimes careless about proper method. You are too bright to permit such errors.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer)—"Small" matters—eye strain, fatigue, indisposition—are drawbacks. Correct these matters, take occasional rest periods; don't fret.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo)—Peek up! We all are peering at various points. Maybe you don't just now, but you probably will soon. Think over the whys of others' successes.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo)—Engaging manners, sociability are important. Good practices should be constant. Enjoy friendly get-togethers.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra)—Occasionally you may have to work against time, against heavy odds. It is how we do it that makes or breaks our day. Libra knows the solid, calm way; apply it.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio)

—Especially favorable for artistic and home matters, decorating, manufacturing fabrics, decorative affairs generally. Please, very effective now.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius)—Mars and the Sun warn against being irritating, domineering. The more patient and understanding you are, the more cooperation you'll get, the farther advance.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Saturn and Mars say it is a time for sensible caution, cheerful disposition and self-restraint generally. On top-sponsored list are home, artistic interests, personal matters.

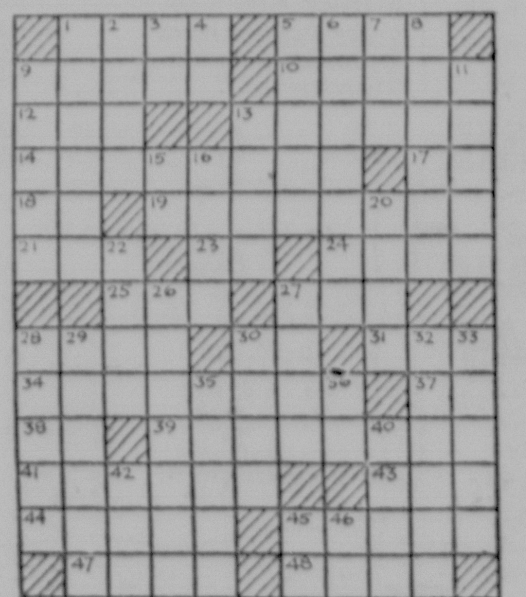

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Neither very encouraging nor retarding. Much depends upon how you handle schedule and how difficult it is. Think before start, then carry on smoothly.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Extra care for confidential work, matters pertaining to the sea, navy, hospitals. Avoid schemers, shady propositions. Day improves as it advances.

YOU BORN TODAY? In a quiet way Pisces can achieve wonders in medicine, literature, art, mechanics, as traveler, or homemaker. Make thoughtful parents, faithful providers though sometimes both too indulgent and critical of loved ones. Don't confide quickly in others, especially in personal, home matters. Birthdate of: Jas. Priestley, great Eng. chemist; Jack Lait, newspaperman, author, playwright.

Miller Furniture Store To Mark 52nd Anniversary

By James B. Gaffney

A. C. Miller Furniture Store, 350 Main St., Stroudsburg, will launch a sale next week in tribute to their 52 years in business.

Started by the late Ambrose C. Miller as a small retail outlet on Ninth Street the business flourished and later moved to the Main St. address where Miller erected a building.

Most outstanding aspect of the new structure was its full-length display windows, an innovation to business in this area but at that time considered unusual.

The founder died Dec. 6, 1941 and his nephew, Frank Miller, became the store's owner. Since acquiring the store the present proprietor has made extensive remodeling changes and three years ago added to the building's structure.

Mrs. Carrie Marsh joined A. C. Miller 34 years ago this month and the two operated the enterprise for many years. Today there are nine employees.

Sales and service departments of George W. Sebring and Sons and Wyckoff-Sears Store participated in clinics two days this week under the sponsorship of Jacobsen-Worthington Co.

Wednesday, Sebring's were hosts to 45 dealers and servicemen at their showrooms, 1103 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg. Last night the sales clinic found Wyckoff-Sears as hosts at Wyckoff Recreation Center.

Dealers within a 50-mile radius of the Stroudsburgs were invited to the sessions and viewed the new 18-inch rotary mower being manufactured by Jacobsen-Worthington Co.

Roger J. Thomas, field engineer for Jacobsen-Worthington, and Richard R. Fredenberg, assistant service manager of Worthington Co., headed the school. Last night's sales meeting was directed by John MacGregor, of Jacobsen-Worthington Co.

Paul Lloyd, owner of Lloyd's Sporting Goods and Stationery Store has moved to 122 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, in the Fenner Building location formerly occupied by Dairy Den Restaurant.

Lloyd assumed the C. A. Nauman business late last year and operated at 24 Washington St. for several months following Nauman's retirement from that enterprise.

At his new location Lloyd will retail everything in the sporting goods line "from fish hooks to boats" as he termed it. Assisting will be Mrs. Nelson Edwards, 75 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg, who has been associated with Lloyd assisting with tax collections for five years.

Before purchasing stock and fixtures from Nauman, Lloyd was a partner in the Globe Furniture Store, East Stroudsburg. He is concluding his second four-year term as borough tax collector and is seeking reelection as a Republican candidate.

Lloyd expects to sell hunting and fishing licenses in the near future and will stock a complete line of well-known stationery.

Active in Little League baseball for East Stroudsburg, Lloyd also announced he will utilize a small room in the rear of his store as Little League headquarters, where meetings can be held. He is a member of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, the Exchange Club and various fraternal organizations of the area.

Registration headquarters for the soap box derby in Allentown in mid-July to determine the Lehigh Valley champion who will vie for world championship honors in Akron, Ohio opened for this area at Tucker's Chevrolet Co., 912 Main St., Stroudsburg, this week.

Last year nine youngsters from this section participated in the Allentown run and to date three already have signified they'll enter the trials.

The winner in Allentown will travel to Akron for the August 9 All-American Derby which grants $15,000 in college scholarships to victors.

Area boys between the ages of 11 and 15 are eligible. There are no entry fees or registration charges. All that is necessary to enter is for a boy and one parent to go to Tucker's garage, sign an entry form and then build a car.

A rule book outlining step-by-step the procedure for construction a car is given on registration. The boys must build the vehicle themselves according to specifications in the book.

The Allentown race is the only one in this area affiliated with the All-American Soap Box Derby, now in its 16th year.

Directors of Kol-Ax Co., Inc., Stroudsburg, recently elected Mrs. Harry Kline, of Wilson Borough, as president succeeding her husband who died last April.

The firm deals in commercial ranges and kitchen equipment operating from its North First Street plant here.

Also elected were Frank Vaughn, vice president, George Robinson, secretary, and George Graff, treasurer.

Robert Collins, plumbing supplies salesman for Wyckoff-Sears Store announced yesterday he will join the D. Katz and Sons, Inc. firm Monday.

Resident of East Stroudsburg RD 2, Collins has been with Sears-Roebuck for the past two years. With Katz he will serve as salesman for its wholesale plumbing and heating division, a branch opened four years ago.

'Power Of Words' Theme Of Sermon By Rev. Bernard

Bartonville — "The Power of Words" was the theme of Rev. Leroy Bernard's sermon at Reed-er's and Wesley Chapel Methodist Churches Sunday.

He spoke of the present world situation and of the conflagrations that have been set off on a world scale and in the lives of innocent individuals by the seeds of evil in a few unwisely or maliciously spoken words, compared with the good that can be done by the choice of a Christian approach to any situation.

Mrs. John Cummings was admitted to membership at Wesley Chapel by letter of transfer from St. Paul's Evangelical United Brethren Church, Red Lion, where she had been a member for over 20 years.

Mrs. Hatti Imbt At 91 Finds People Still Kind

"Everybody's been so good to me," said Mrs. Hattie Imbt at her home, at 144 Lackawanna Ave., surrounded by the gifts she got on her 91st birthday yesterday. But that's one of her wishes that "when I go, I don't want to leave anybody who hates me."

That's far from likely, since Mrs. Imbt herself is filled with enthusiasm for her family even down to the fifth generation, her friends, and even the "city people" who used to come in the Summer to board at her home in Cherry Lane.

McGarrys Have Supper For Honor Society

Mrs. Imbt is the former Hattie Bush, born March 12, 1862, in Ananook to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bush. After she and her husband, James Imbt, were married he worked on the railroad until they had saved enough to buy their own place on the Cherry Lane Road.

There they farmed—and she'd done her share of farm work, she said with a twinkle, and kept city people.

"Hard work," well yes, at one time we had forty all at once. But they were nice folks. I wouldn't complain about any of them," she said.

In fact she "can't complain" about anything—especially her children. There were seven of them born at Cherry Lane, and when she left there after her husband died about 12 years ago, she has lived a while with each one of them.

"I don't play favorites," she said, "and I stay with all of them the same length of time. They all use me good. They take me everywhere I want to go. I could stay alone but none of them will hear of it."

It's no wonder they all want her in their turn. She's well and vigorous for her years.

"I sweep around," she said laughingly, "but I don't do much scrubbing." One of her sons, Walter, died before his father, but the other children are all married and with homes that are open to her, as well as the homes of her many grandchildren.

She has lots of grandchildren, too, and even one "fifth generation," she said.

Her children are George Imbt, of Stroudsburg; Charles Imbt, of Scranton; Wilbur Imbt, Mrs. Beulah Stalmer, Mrs. Laura Transue, of East Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Turrell M. Keller, of 144 Lackawanna Ave., with whom she is living at the present time.

Did she have any recipe for living to such a vigorous old age. Well, no, she wouldn't know what to say except "I'm glad I lived as I did. I lived for the Lord all my life and He gives you strength," she said.

Then she showed the two new dresses she got for her birthday and the pretty lapel pin and all other gifts she had received, with the surprised comment that she couldn't see why everybody was being so good to her.

The gracious manner, the firm handshake and the smile she gave as she said good-bye from the doorway was explanation enough.

St. Patrick's Dance

Mount Pocono—A St. Patrick's night dance for the benefit of the Pocono Missions will be held at Pocono Manor Inn on Tuesday night, March 17, starting at 8:30, to which the public is invited. The committee in charge has also arranged a program of entertainment in addition to the dancing. Tickets are now available and may be obtained from members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Things calmed down considerably yesterday—enough anyway to permit me to pay a birthday call on Mrs. Hattie Imbt. We had a grand time too. I asked her how she liked her picture in the morning paper. Well, everybody else told her they liked it very much, but I think, she said with a twinkle that it makes me look a little old. At 91, that's pretty cute.

And true, too, because it didn't catch the flush in her cheek, the brightness of her eye. Did catch her staunch and indestructible character, however.

Not so indestructible is my epidermis I discovered. Never noticed in the excitement of beating out the fire how many beautiful scratches I'd acquired. I noticed today though.

It was the same feeling you get after you've pruned the ramblers, all frayed at the edges, sort of. Which reminds me that it is getting on to rose pruning time.

There's nothing tangible to point to and say, look, sign of spring. But there is a bluish on the end of the alders, a green haze around the barberry. If you look too closely it's gone. But sneak on it and you can see the new green under the singed grass.

Guess, maybe we're going to make it. Oh probably with a few blizzards in between. But at least we're on our way.

Parish Dinner Tuesday

The parishioners of the Christ Episcopal Church, Stroudsburg, will attend the annual parish dinner and meeting on Tuesday night, March 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the parish house.

There may be a few people left in Stroudsburg today. But I have my doubts. From what I hear, everyone who isn't going to Europe with the Wyckoff party will be in New York waving a fond farewell . . . and whether one is on deck waving or on the pier waving, it's wonderfully exciting.

Bon Voyage! What fascinating words . . . words that paint a picture of the entire world . . . of people . . . of customs . . . of strange sounds, colors, fragrances, and ideas. Just the thought makes me wish to tear into the Travel Bureau and buy a ticket for some place I've never been . . . even if it's only Oshkosh or Kalamazoo.

What a day yesterday was for our Wyckoff travelers! It was impossible to get near enough to either Mr. Wyckoff or Mr. Kerlin to say goodbye. There were too many who had lined up in advance for last minute words of advice. And Edna Brockman and Helen Mitchell were completely hidden from sight under a mounting pile of small gifts and big wishes. Each had a list a mile long of items people wanted them to bring back . . . a pair of earrings, or perfume, or some cards from a museum. As though this weren't enough to put a girl in a tizzy, there was a florist's box with a glorious green orchid corsage and a card UNSEEN-ED.

We're all thrilled — no doubt about it. But come to think of it, I'm pretty thrilled too. I'm not going to Europe. But I am planning a weekend in New York with the family . . . and that too promises a lot of pleasure. After all, I've never seen Cinerama . . . and my son has never seen a lot of things that will make his eyes grow as big as saucers and glow brighter than neons on Broadway. I too had my reservation made by the Wyckoff Travel Bureau. I may not travel as far as Edna and Helen, but by golly, I travel with the same peace of mind.

I feel quite accomplished these days — and for the strangest reason in the world. Here I've been sitting for days, doing my work to the brisk accompaniment of chattering men wielding brushes of paint, and I haven't strangled yet. Monday almost did it . . . but when a woman knows that she's going to have lovely new surroundings, spotlessly clean and joyously fresh in color, she doesn't want to miss out on any of the details, does she?

The men can't take it—that I admit. Walter Wyckoff wrinkles his nose in passing . . . Arthur Widmer barricades himself behind a closed door . . . and one of the more outspoken executives mimes no words as to the odor . . . and they're right. Every one of them. But who'd want to miss the excitement of spring cleaning? There's Dick Shook promising to have clean tapes on the blinds by Saturday; Sally Schroeder running in to hold swatches against the wall, and telling you, "Your new drapes are ready," and co-workers coming in to see the new color scheme. Who cares if they ARE holding their noses?

Fixing up for spring is wonderful . . . better even than a raise in pay. And it's going on in countless homes right now. I imagine that, while the men are protesting about the muss, fuss and bother, the women are having a wonderful time. Come to think of it, fresh paint in spring smells almost as good as Chanel No. 5. Well—ALMOST.

Northern Wayne, Hawley Meet Saturday For Basketball Crown

Hawley Rated Surprise Team Of Tournament

Hawley — Northern Wayne and Hawley registered victories in the semi-final round of the Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack Chamber of Commerce basketball tournament here and thereby earned the right to meet for the championship on Saturday.

Greene-Dreher-Sterling and Lake Township were the victims. Northern Wayne outscored the Stags, 75-65 and Hawley, the surprise team of the tourney, edged the Lakers, 63-61.

A nine-point bulge in the third period provided most of the margin in Northern Wayne's triumph. They had been held on even terms by Greene-Dreher-Sterling in the first half but blew the contest wide open immediately after the intermission mainly through the efforts of Tommy Upright, a 27-point producer, and Joe Materese, who dropped in 21 markers.

The Stags matched their conquerors from the floor but were able to score only 13 free throws in 31 attempts while Northern Wayne converted 23 of 40 tries.

Bill Lee was the leading scorer for the Stags with 15 points while Adams, Phillips and Cron followed with 13, 12 and 11 respectively.

Hawley overcame a seven-point lead in the final five minutes to score its second last-ditch win of the tournament, beating a team that had twice given the Buckhorns a good going-over, once by a 25-point margin. Hawley won only one WCC game in 15 starts but has come alive in the 26th annual renewal of this event and now must be considered an even choice to win the crown.

Anti-Trust Suit Ends

Philadelphia, (AP) — The 19 day trial of the government's anti-trust suit against the National Football League concluded yesterday but the decision is not likely before September at the earliest.

The government completed its rebuttal evidence with the introduction of several documents after the defense cross-examined Jerry N. Jordan, an advertising firm employee.

The government has charged the NFL's radio broadcast and television policy is restrictive and in violation of anti-trust laws.

Federal Judge Allan K. Grim, hearing the case without jury, set June 15 for the filing of government briefs, July 15 for defense briefs and Aug. 14 for the government reply briefs.

The judge said he thought the case had been thoroughly argued on both sides and he felt he had a clear conception of the issues.

MARCH WINDS may blow elsewhere but Early Wynn, Cleveland pitcher, finds himself in the torrid zone as he resorts to the sweatbox in the Indians' Tucson, Ariz., training camp, in hopes of parting with some of the poundage he picked up during winter idleness. Mopping his teammate's brow is Bob Feller, who looks lean and trim.

Allentown Goes Against Slatington Fire Tonight

Harrisburg, (AP) — At least five of tonight's six PIAA basketball tournament games will produce new Class A schoolboy district champions.

Allentown, an Eastern favorite, tries to annex the District 11 crown in a game against Slatington. Slatington represents the Lehigh Valley League, the loop that produced last season's district winner, Catawissa.

The Canaries of Allentown 21-3 waited past a good Ashland team in the semi-finals and is looking for little trouble from Slatington.

Williamsport of District 4 is the only defending titlist with a chance of regaining district honors in the six contests, and the Millionaires have a fight on their hands to turn the trick.

New champs will be named in Districts 2, 6, 7, 9 and 11.

No Class B games are on the card as the smaller schools prepare for inter-district play beginning Monday. The Class C championship eliminations get underway tomorrow too, with three games involving district winners.

Williamsport, one of the state's top independent basketball clubs, goes after its seventh district title in the last eight years. In 1951 the Millionaires lost out to Bloomsburg.

Furnishing the opposition is a formidable Coal Twp. quintet which won 22 games and lost only one in sweeping to the Keystone League title. The single black mark on the Coal Twp. record was put there by Williamsport after an early season coal triumph in the first meeting of the two teams.

Williamsport enters the final on a first round bye with a 14-7 log for the season. Coal, led by its high scoring Duda twin combination, eliminated Bloomsburg in a first rounder.

In perhaps the top game of the evening, the Sharon Tigers face their stiffest test in a drive to succeed Farrell as both WPIAL District 7 and state Class A champion. Sharon, loser only three times in 23 games, tangles with Ford City, Section 1 Victor.

Ford City, winner of the WPIAL, downed a strong Greene-Washington entry in the semi-finals while Sharon took the measure of Washington. Sharon qualified for the WPIAL play by beating out Farrell in the Section 3 race, thus preventing the Steelers from defending their 1952 championship.

Hollidaysburg, the state's only Class A undefeated five, goes for No. 19 against Johnston in the deciding game of District 6. Despite their perfect record the Golden Tigers enter the game as underdogs to a powerful Johnston which has moved down 25 opponents in 26 starts.

Other district finals pit Old Forge against Plymouth District 2 and Clonfield against Bradford District 9.

The first action in the Class C championship bracket finds Rubensonia District 3 playing White Haven District 11, Harter 2 against Ridgetown 4 and Chicora 9 against Fredonia 10.

Gold Medal Committee Will Meet

The YMCA Gold Medal Tournament Committee meets tonight at 7:30 to set up regulations for the basketball tourney scheduled for March 23.

George Metropoulos said last night that these men have agreed to cooperate as a directing committee.

Dr. Gail Fegley, Thomas Somers, Ray Welsh, Harold Neuman, Ray O'Melko, Earl Weiss, Dick Fredenberg, Edward Jennings, Warren Loney, Mahlon Serfass, Bill Hawin, Jim Riley, John DeVivo, Roy Davis.

The committee will concentrate first on rules of the tournament. Team recruitment will follow immediately after they are established and announced.

NCAA Court Race Narrows

New York (AP) — With the preliminary skirmishing out of the way, the NCAA Basketball Tournament gets going in earnest tonight with four regional tournaments at widely-scattered centers.

Nine teams who won their way to conference championships start all over again, on the route to a title, with seven at-large teams also scrapping for the crown they seldom win.

Only twice in 14 years have teams from outside the conferences won the title.

The conference kings are favored to win it again this year, since teams high up in the latest Associated Press poll of the top 10 are pegged in each of the four regions.

The regional winners will meet in the finals at Kansas City next Tuesday and Wednesday, March 17-18.

Penn 21-4, the Ivy League winner, goes against Notre Dame at Chicago after Indiana plays DePaul.

Louisiana State, best team in the Southeastern Conference, will play Lebanon Valley, surprise team of the tournament, at Raleigh, N.C. Holy Cross meets Wake Forest, Southern Conference champion, in the other Raleigh game.

Regional finals also will be held at Corvallis, Ore-Washington vs. Seattle and Wyoming vs. Santa Clara. Kansas vs. Oklahoma City and Oklahoma A&M vs. Texas Christian is the doubleheader at Manhattan, Kas.

Red Sox Chase Cards' Rookie

Sarasota, Fla., (AP) — Held to one hit over the first four innings by rookie Jack Fasholtz, the Boston Red Sox crushed yesterday for five runs in the fifth frame and went on to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-6.

Shortstop Al Richter led the Red Sox assault with a pair of doubles. Gene Stephens, Jim Pezarsall and Dick Gervet also collected a pair of hits for the Soxers.

Dukes Sparks Seton Hall To Win Over Manhattan; St. John's Trips Duquesne

New York, (AP) — Seton Hall, with lanky Walter Dukes turning in one of his finer performances, outlasted scrappy but outclassed Manhattan, 74-56, to enter the final round of the National Invitation Tournament last night. The top seeded Pirates from South Orange, N. J., will oppose unseeded St. John's of Brooklyn, a 64-55 winner over Duquesne, in Saturday's final.

A screaming, excited crowd of 18,014, largest of the season at Madison Square Garden, saw Seton Hall come on to win easily in the last quarter after Manhattan's fourth-seeded Jaspers had put up a determined scrap.

Dukes, the 6-foot-11 All-America from Rochester, N. Y., picked as the outstanding player in the New York metropolitan area this season, lived up to his billing. He scored 23 points, not a notably high total for him, but in a defensive setup that let him float around under the basket, he grabbed off all the rebounds in sight.

In the opening game St. John's slick passing and its big Jim Davis' accurate shooting upset favored Duquesne.

Davis, a husky 6-foot-7 specimen, whistled in 22 points, many of them deadly set shots, to lead the scoring and keep the Duquesne team off balance.

Duquesne, made a six-point favorite by the local price makers, didn't play up to the form it had shown in two earlier tournament games, and to a large extent it was Davis' scoring that was the reason. As long as he was hitting from out near the foul line, Duquesne's big man, Jim Tucker, had to stay with him. As a result, Tucker wasn't getting his usual share of the rebounds and the whole Duquesne plan of play was upset.

Gola, Beck Make All-State Team

Philadelphia, (AP) — A tall, fast, sharpshooting five, headed by All-Americans Tom Gola of LaSalle and Ernie Beck of Penn, make up the 1953 Associated Press All-Pennsylvania collegiate basketball team.

Sports writers and sportscasters throughout the state named Dick Ricketts of Duquesne; Larry Hennessy of Villanova, and Jesse Arnette of Penn State to the first team along with Gola and Beck.

The second five consists of Norman Grekin of LaSalle, Mike DePaul of Albright, Don Virostek of Pitt, Maurice Stokes of St. Francis, and Carson Lovett of Franklin and Marshall.

Honorable mention—Jim Kennedy, California; Bud McIndoe, Allegheny; Don Stenmerich, Clarion; George Hesch, Gannon; Dick Duck, Allegheny; Walter Bedeck, Gannon; Cy Kaliszak, Alliance; Bill Speehak, Edinboro; Bob Waldren, Thiel; Jerry Neff, Westminster; Jim Tucker, Duquesne; Pete Kinkead, Geneva; Fred Lehe, LaSalle; Clair Winter, Grove City; Bill Vaught, Lebanon Valley; Bob Schafer, Villanova; Jackie Moyre, LaSalle; Clarence Burch, Pitt; Al Didrickson, Temple; Connie Miller, Temple; Sam Glassmire, Villanova; Jake Handzelik, Juniata; Mickey Zernich, Pitt; Eddie Cahn, Lehigh; Larry Friedman, Muhlenberg; Howie Landi, Lebanon Valley; Joe Elft, Scranton; Dave Linkhorst, Bloomsburg; Tony Papaneri, St. Joseph's; Jack Sherry, Penn State.

O'Brien, Selvey Break Record

New York (AP) — Individual records for most total points and most points per basketball game have been broken by Seattle's Johnny O'Brien and Frank Selvey of Furman.

O'Brien and Selvey still have a chance to pile up more.

Selvey's season is finished, and the 6 foot 4 junior wound up with a 29.5-point average for 25 games, erasing the mark of 29.2 set by Bill Mikky of Temple in 25 games two years ago.

Meanwhile, in figures of the NCAA Service Bureau, O'Brien has boosted his points for the season to 861 with a 42-point performance against Idaho State in Tuesday's NCAA tournament game.

This bettered the 831-point total of Duke's Dick Groat in 1951. Seattle plays Washington tomorrow night in the NCAA regional tournament, and will have at least one more game in that tourney Saturday.

O'Brien has hardly any chance of catching Selvey, since he would need about 60 points a game to reach the Furman ace's average. Actually, Johnny is third with 287 points, behind Larry Hennessy of Villanova, with 292 in 16 games. Hennessy was ineligible the first half of the season.

Rookie Pitcher Beats Dodgers

West Palm Beach, Fla., (AP) — Rookie John Mackinson racked up his first win of the Grapefruit League season yesterday as his Philadelphia Athletics mates clubbed Brooklyn, 8-2, to smash the Dodgers' five game winning streak.

Mackinson took over in the fourth after Harry Byrd had recovered from a shaky start. The score was tied at that point, 2-2, but the A's counted five times in the next three innings and added another for safety after veteran Bobo Newsom took over the Philadelphia mound chores.

Martinez Is Crowd Lure For Battle

New York (AP) — A lot of people are going to pay their way into the Garden for a fight tonight and the lure this time is Vince Martinez, a hardhitting young welterweight from Paterson, N. J.

The handsome, curly-haired draftsman faces Chico Vejar, another popular youngster, but it's Vince who is the big attraction.

His loyal and vocal followers plan to cross the Hudson by the busload and the carload in the hopes of seeing their 23-year-old pride rack up his 14th straight victory.

Special trains will bring down loads of Vejar rooters from Connecticut.

The 21-year-old NYU sophomore soccer from Stamford has won seven in a row since he was beaten for the second time by Chuck Davoy.

With a big advance sale, the International Boxing club expects a crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $40,000 plus $23,000 radio-TV money despite the 3 to 1 odds favoring Martinez.

Both figures would be Garden fight highs for the season and the best since Rocky Marciano belted out Joe Louis on Oct. 26, 1951.

The heavyweight clash drew 17,241 fans and $152,845 at prices ranging to $25. Tomorrow's top is $8.

The IBC is enthused over the financial report because the 10 p. m., EST bout will get the full radio ABC and television NBC treatment. Both of the kids soared to popularity on previous TV showings but both obviously have plenty of followers who prefer to see them in the flesh.
